SATURDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 27.

PORK DENOUNCED .- Pork, says a medical writer, is the diseased adipose tissue or fat of the American hog. It is the more and more diseased, and hence richer in flavor for food to men, as the animal is allowed to live on the rotten and as the animal is allowed to live on the rotten and fithy excrements of man and beast, and to est all the indigestible and refuse food which no other aminal will est or smell of but once. If the food called swill is fermented by putrefactive decomposition the hog is more greedy to get it, and envelop himself all the more desply in the luscious and delicious fat Exercise, sunlight, fresh air, cleanliness and healthy diet, are not the proper food for fat stuffs. The confinement in barns, cellars, darkness, close pens, filth, the refuse of shaughter-houses, glue factoriss, the refuse of shaughter-houses, glue factories, and dirty manufactories give rickness and dainty flavor to the articles of human ford known as bacon, ham, lard, sausage, salt pork, headcheese, liver and so on.

The hog is the nest or generating place of the trichina and the elegant tape-worm, which ultimately take up their residences in the bodies of men and women. He is also the source of lard, or the diseased fat reduced to a soft solid, and used extensively in cookery to prepare the common but innutritious pie crust. Lard is also of constant use in the frying-pan—an American delight. Its great value here is that it boils at so hight a temperature when food is it boils at so hight a temperature when food is cooked in it that the tender and juicy albumen is dried up and greatly injured, but at the same time the delicate flavor of the discased fat is all the more brought former? the more brought forward.
